

CHURCH ARCHITECTURE: INSIDE AND OUT

- ✚ Does it matter what a church building looks like?
- ✚ Does it matter how a church interior is arranged?

The Revd Dr Brett Cane will give us a whirlwind tour of church building history, showing how different styles emphasise different aspects of the Christian faith.

He will show how the interior arrangements of Anglican churches have evolved over the centuries, revealing that “how we have always done it” isn't exactly the case.

Saturday March 24th

9:30 am – 12:30 pm

1440 West 12th Avenue

Brett is a graduate architect with degrees in architecture from McGill University, Montreal, as well as an Anglican cleric who studied at Wycliffe Hall, Oxford and Fuller Seminary, Pasadena. Though retired, he keeps an active rôle in ministry and enjoys extensive touring and experiencing architecture around the world.

The morning will conclude with discussion of how space can be arranged appropriately and expressively for Christian worship.
